makes you think

Did you know that Mars has four seasons and that it is home to the largest mountains in our solar system? Or that Neptune is blue, has eight moons, and is the windiest planet? Viewers will learn these facts, and much more, in these short, humorous episodes. Join Captain Kent as he provides interesting facts about the sun and all of the planets in this parody of Star Trek.

Captain Kent also hosts an online game to extend the learning. By collecting memory chips that contain information about the solar system, users help Captain Kent get his memory back.

This converged resource brings together video and online activities that will appeal to varied learning styles.
